

Poem Transformation

Read the poem aloud and think of a title.

Title: _____

She has a Band-Aid on her finger,
One on her knee, and one on her nose,
One on her heel, and two on her shoulder,
Three on her elbow, and nine on her toes.
Two on her wrist, and one on her ankle,
One on her chin, and one on her thigh,
Four on her belly, and five on her bottom,
One on her forehead, and one on her eye.
One on her neck, and in case she might need them
She has a box full of thirty-five more.
But oh! It certainly is quite a pity she doesn't have even one cut or one sore!

2. Can you say the same poem aloud, but for a boy instead of a girl?
